

The result is the time from both programs are equal the time from the stop watch. This is because we count only small amount of time. If the time we count is more than 2 minutes, the time from delay program won't be equal to the time from stopwatch.